Case Management and You

PRIVACY/CONFIDENTIALITY

The Workers Compensation Board of Manitoba's (WCB) collection, use and disclosure of information is governed primarily by three pieces of legislation:

- The Workers Compensation Act (the Act)
- The Personal Health Information Act (PHIA)
- The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FIPPA)

To determine your entitlements, it is necessary for the WCB to collect and use relevant information about you. The WCB decides the nature and sufficiency of the information to be collected. Workers, employers and healthcare providers must provide information to the WCB at the WCB's request.

All information collected by the WCB is treated as confidential. WCB employees are bound by confidentiality provisions under the Act, WCB policies, and a confidentiality pledge which strictly limits the disclosure of your personal information to others. FIPPA and PHIA also place certain limits on the information the WCB may disclose. However, you should be aware that the WCB may disclose some information about you in certain limited situations.

Under section 101 of the Act, the WCB must disclose relevant information to your employer where there is a request for reconsideration or appeal. You will be notified in the event of a reconsideration or appeal and given the chance to object to the disclosure of information to your employer. You may object to the release of information that is not relevant to your appeal or personal information about you. The WCB will take your objection into consideration when deciding whether to disclose the information. If you disagree with the WCB's decision regarding the disclosure of information, you can appeal the decision to the Chief Appeal Commissioner.

The WCB can also disclose limited information to your employer without a reconsideration or appeal for WCB purposes. This is set out in WCB policies and would usually involve information about your work abilities or rehabilitation plan in order to try to help you to return to work.

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT THE WCB

- Your employer pays for all WCB insurance benefits – they are not deducted from your pay nor are they funded by tax dollars.
- The WCB is governed by a Board of Directors that includes a neutral Board chairperson, three representatives of workers, three representatives of employers and three representatives of the public interest.

The WCB is committed to providing our customers with valued services for insurance, prevention, compensation and return to work, while maintaining the integrity of the system.

GOVERNING LEGISLATION

WCB benefits and services are determined by the date of your injury and provincial legislation applicable on that date.

WELCOME AND INTRODUCTION

Your claim is now entering a different phase of our claim system called Case Management. Case managers will ensure you get the support you need to recover from your workplace injury and return to work. This support includes providing you with coverage for appropriate treatment, assistance with activities of daily living if required, and to help you have a timely and safe return to health and work. Case managers may also discuss and address any needs you may have with the personal and emotional issues that arise out of your workplace injury.

The purpose of this handbook is to:

- provide you with an overview of the case management process
- outline possible services and entitlements
- provide contact numbers and other claim related information.

If you require interpreter services, talk to your case manager who will make the necessary arrangements.

VISION, MISSION AND VALUES

OUR VISION

A safer Manitoba that fosters prevention and return to work.

OUR MISSION

We provide our customers with valued services for insurance, prevention, compensation and return to work, while maintaining the integrity of the system.

OUR VALUES

- Integrity
- Caring
- Innovation
- Collaboration

THE RECOVERY PROCESS

The WCB recognizes that each person's injury, illness and recovery are unique. A team effort involving you, your healthcare provider(s) and the WCB will be used to ensure you get healthcare and other services to help with your timely and safe return to health and work. Many employers also have return to work programs to help with the recovery process.

With the transfer of your claim to Case Management, you will have a case manager assigned as your primary contact with the WCB. Your case manager will become knowledgeable about your claim and is responsible for decisions related to it.

We encourage you to talk to your case manager about any concerns that may develop during your recovery.

TREATMENTS

Depending on the nature and seriousness of your injury, there are various treatment options that may be supported and funded by the WCB.

Primary services include:

- physiotherapy
- work hardening (an intensive occupational therapy program)
- occupational therapy
- physical reconditioning
- chiropractic
- psychological treatment
- acupuncture.

Your doctor is responsible for making these treatment referrals and for arranging specialist appointments. Your doctor should also report this information to your case manager to ensure pre-approved coverage.

The length of treatment coverage on your claim is determined by your case manager in accordance with WCB policy and guidelines. Requests to extend treatment may be considered.

At times, diagnostic testing (for example, a CT scan or MRI) or a referral to a specialist may be required to help define the extent of your injury and your treatment needs. Your doctor is responsible for arranging these initial appointments. Once a request is made, the WCB may be able to help arrange appointment times at certain clinics.

During your treatment and recovery, we may ask a WCB healthcare professional to examine you. You will be provided ample notice for this type of assessment as well as the reason for the review. You may bring someone to the examination to provide support and to help ensure your questions are answered. The results of the exam are shared with your healthcare provider.

If required, we have an independent interpreter service which we can share with you. We can make all the interpreter service arrangements for you.

While in treatment, and as you recover, you may be capable of doing some of the tasks involved in your current job or other tasks at work. These are referred to as modified or alternate duties. The case manager will assess your healthcare information and determine what you are able to do. We will work together with you and your employer to facilitate a timely and safe return to health and work. As you progress through treatment, your abilities will generally improve. The goal is to have you return to your original or pre-injury job.

We understand that not being able to work because of your injury may affect the benefits you receive through your workplace such as dental plans or private insurance coverage. Check with your employer or private insurance company to clarify how you may be affected. As an insurance program, your WCB benefits are limited to medical expenses incurred as a result of your injury.

PARTICIPATION IN THE CASE MANAGEMENT PROCESS

To help you through your recovery, communication should occur among the following:

- you
- your case manager
- your doctor or other healthcare professional
- your employer
- your union representative or worker advocate if requested or applicable.

YOUR PARTICIPATION

- Keep in touch with your case manager and provide information on your medical status, and treatment or recovery recommendations. Let your case manager know about any concerns or questions you have.
- Be sure to go to all your healthcare appointments including exams, tests and treatment.
- Stay in touch with your employer. This will help when you return to work.
- The Workers Compensation Act requires workers to reasonably participate in their recovery and return to work. The WCB must be satisfied the worker is taking reasonable steps to aid in their own return to safe and suitable work.
- If a suitable job becomes available at your workplace, you must participate in the return to work program.
- Let your case manager know when you return to work so your WCB payments can be adjusted or stopped. If you continue to receive WCB payments after you have returned to work, you will be required to repay the money to the WCB.
- If you disagree with your return to work plan and/or feel that you are being asked to take part in an unsafe or unsuitable return to work, you should contact the WCB immediately.

YOUR CASE MANAGER'S RESPONSIBILITY

Your case manager will:

- inform you of your benefits and the level of support you may receive
- assess your needs, taking into account your medical status and the impact your injury has on your daily activities at home and work
- communicate with you throughout your recovery
- ensure wage loss and other benefits are provided to you on a timely basis
- obtain medical information as it relates to your treatment needs and work abilities
- provide your employer with regular updates on your progress
- if necessary, help determine safe and suitable return to work options with your employer
- if required, help develop a return to work plan with you and your employer.

YOUR HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONAL'S PARTICIPATION

Your healthcare professionals (family doctor, chiropractor, specialist, physiotherapist, etc.) will:

- assess and diagnose your injury or illness and recommend a treatment plan
- if required, arrange treatment and diagnostic testing
- provide the WCB with requested medical information in a timely manner
- recommend functional abilities regarding return to work.

YOUR EMPLOYER'S PARTICIPATION

Your employer will:

- stay in contact with you and advise you of modified and alternate work opportunities available while you recover
- provide you with information on their return to work program
- upon request, advise the case manager of other duties available to you while you recover from your workplace injury or illness. Although not required by the WCB, your employer may need your doctor to complete a Functional Abilities Form to help identify safe and suitable work. This form may identify work abilities and limitations. For example, it may list the number of hours you can work or the amount of lifting you can do
- provide progress reports to your case manager about your return to work
- upon request, provide your case manager with wage information. (The information will be used to establish your wage loss entitlement. For example, if your return to work plan includes working less hours per day until you can return to work full time you may receive partial wage loss payments.)

YOUR UNION REPRESENTATIVE OR WORKER ADVOCATE'S PARTICIPATION (IF REQUESTED OR APPLICABLE)

Your union representative or advocate may, with your permission:

- assist with facilitating discussion with your employer about a change in your abilities and supports needed for your return to work
- help you with issues on return to work or other WCB related matters.

RETURN TO WORK

A timely and safe return to health and work can help in your recovery. A successful return to work usually involves a partnership between you, your employer and your healthcare professional(s). You may choose to have your union and/or your worker advocate participate, along with the WCB.

Your employer will often develop your return to work plan with you. The primary return to work goal is to help you return to your original job. Returning you to work with your employer is important as it allows you to return to a familiar workplace and retain your benefits.

If your injury or illness impacts your abilities in a manner that prevents you from returning to your original job, your case manager will review the following work options based on WCB policy. The options are considered in this order:

1. Return to same work, with the same employer (see chart on page 12).
2. Return to same work, modified, with the same employer.
3. Return to alternate work or duties with the same employer.

Our primary goal is always to help you return to your original job. These other options can be considered on a temporary basis while you recover. If your injury results in permanent limits to your abilities, these options may be considered on a long-term basis.

Here's an example of “Return to same work, modified, with the same employer.” Laura is an assembly line worker with a back injury. The WCB has decided her workplace abilities include no prolonged sitting or awkward reaching. Laura's job is modified to include a sit/stand stool which makes it easier to change body positions and a tool shelf is moved closer to her. These changes allow her to continue to do her original duties.

Here's an example of “Return to alternate work or job with the same employer.” Scott is a delivery driver who sustains a permanent ankle injury. He can no longer do the job because of the walking and standing it requires. The delivery job cannot be changed, so with WCB support, Scott takes some basic computer training and is able to work as a dispatcher for his employer. This job involves more sitting so Scott can manage as he recovers.

As part of the return to work plan, the case manager may arrange a review of your work area with you, your employer and your union if applicable. The case manager may also use the services of a rehabilitation specialist to help identify concerns in your work area and recommend changes to reduce the risk of future injuries. If appropriate, the case manager will monitor your return to work plan and assist with wage loss payments if your pay is still impacted by your injury.

Sometimes, people may not fully recover from a workplace injury and may reach a point where no further improvement is expected. If that happens to you, your employer may not be able to re-employ you based on your abilities. In this case, the case manager will then request the services of a vocational rehabilitation consultant to help evaluate other work options. Most claims don't progress to this point. If yours does, you will be provided with more detailed information about vocational rehabilitation.

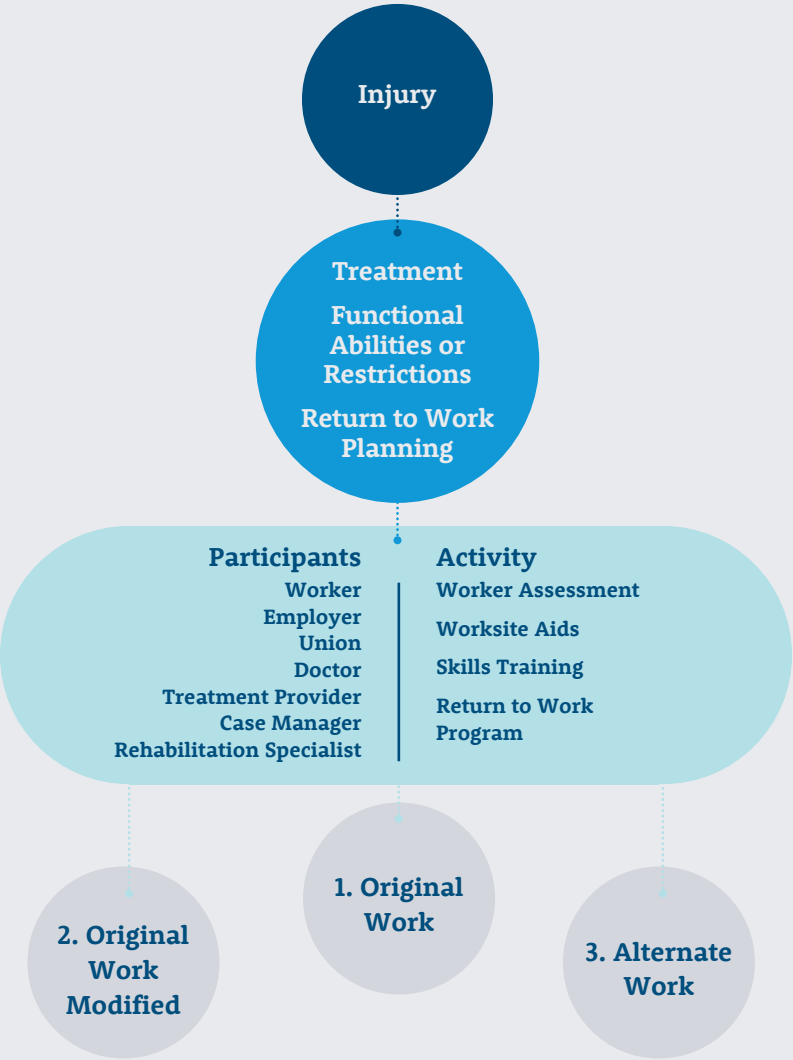

RE-EMPLOYMENT OBLIGATION

The Workers Compensation Act requires employers who have 25 or more full time or regular part time workers to re-employ injured workers who were in their employ for at least 12 continuous months prior to their injury.

For more information on re-employment obligations, refer to the Re-Employment Obligations brochure online at wcb.mb.ca/resources/type/brochure or ask your case manager for a copy.

RETURN TO WORK WITH YOUR EMPLOYER

The goal is always to help you return to your original work. As you recover and progress through treatment, and until you are able to return to your regular duties, your employer may provide modified or alternate work.

ROLE DESCRIPTIONS

Throughout the case management process, different WCB staff may be involved in your claim. Their roles are described below.

CASE MANAGER

The primary decision-maker and contact person on your claim. The case manager is responsible for deciding all aspects of your claim, including ongoing entitlements, monitoring treatment and providing assistance with return to work planning.

CLAIMS SERVICE REPRESENTATIVE

The Claims Service Centre operates between 8:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. If you receive a message when calling your adjudicator or case manager, and you prefer to speak to someone immediately, press “0” on your phone. Your call will be answered by a claims service representative who will do their best to answer your question, obtain an update or provide approval for some medical expenses.

HEALTHCARE ADVISOR

A WCB staff healthcare advisor who provides an opinion to the case manager about the diagnosis and treatment of your injury or illness and work abilities. This helps the case manager make decisions on your claim. You may be asked to come to the WCB for an examination. Following the exam, information will be shared with your healthcare provider. The WCB has general physicians, chiropractors, physiotherapists and specialists in psychiatry/psychology, orthopedics, internal medicine, physical medicine and otolaryngology (ear, nose and throat).

MEDICAL AID ASSESSOR

Processes goods and services benefits such as travel expenses and prescribed medications.

PAYMENT ASSESSOR

Calculates and processes wage loss benefits.

REHABILITATION SPECIALIST

Assesses and recommends supportive aids for you, such as a splint or cane, in the workplace or at home.

VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION CONSULTANT

Helps you return to employment that respects your work abilities when unable to return to work with your incident employer.

WAGE LOSS BENEFITS

The WCB's wage loss benefits are designed to replace your wages if you miss work as a result of a workplace injury.

When we calculate your wage loss benefits, we apply the following probable deductions and credits from your gross earnings:

- Income tax
- Canada Pension Plan (CPP) contributions
- Employment Insurance (EI) contributions
- Basic personal amounts, spousal support payments and childcare expenses (as applicable, for injuries occurring after January 1, 2001).

The result is your net earnings.

We calculate 90 per cent of your net earnings and deduct an amount equal to the probable tax benefit you will receive because of the tax-free status of your WCB benefits.

If you have other insurance plans that will pay you while you are off work, we will include these in our calculations. It is your responsibility to make your WCB adjudicator or case manager aware of any additional benefits you receive (for example, benefits from other disability insurance plans, Employment Insurance or Canada Pension Plan Disability).

PARTIAL WAGE LOSS BENEFITS

There may be times where the WCB pays you a portion of your regular benefit rate. For example:

- You return to work and are making less money than before your injury. This can happen if you temporarily work reduced hours because of your injury or if you work full time in a different or alternate job that pays you less than your pre-injury earnings.
- You are receiving WCB benefits and a collateral benefit. A collateral benefit is any additional benefit you are entitled to receive for a workplace injury under the Canada Pension Plan (disability benefits), the Quebec Pension Plan, the Employment Insurance Act (EI), a private disability insurance plan or employer “top up” benefits. A collateral benefit can also be money earned from another job.

If any of these circumstances result in you receiving income, the WCB will pay you a partial wage loss benefit. Collateral benefits are included to ensure your total combined income does not exceed 100 per cent of your net pre-injury earnings.

Special provisions apply in the calculation of benefits for young workers, apprentices and fatality cases. See the WCB Fact Sheet & FAQ list on page 24 for more information. You can view Fact Sheets & FAQs online at wcb.mb.ca/resources/type/worker-fact-sheet-and-faq or call 204-954-4321 (toll free at 1-855-954-4321) for copies.

The WCB is pleased to offer direct deposit, allowing your payments to be deposited into an account at a financial institution of your choice. To enroll, complete a Direct Deposit form available at wcb.mb.ca/resources/type/worker-form. Your case manager or the Claims Service Centre can also provide you with the form.

WORKER BENEFITS & SERVICES

MEDICATIONS

The WCB may cover the cost of medication prescribed as a result of a workplace injury. Certain types of pain medication may need to be reviewed by a WCB Healthcare Advisor before they are approved. These costs can be reimbursed to you when you submit a receipt or direct billing may be set up with your pharmacy.

Opioids

Your injury may result in pain that requires strong medication. The WCB recognizes that physicians are confronted with the challenge of prescribing opioids in a way that balances their ability to relieve pain and improve function while minimizing side-effects and risks.

A policy has been developed to provide instructions for the authorization and payment of opioids. This policy applies to cases involving non-cancer pain and can be found on our website at wcb.mb.ca/policy-manual (Section 44, Policy 44.120.20).

TREATMENT EXPENSES

In addition to covering the cost of your treatment sessions, the WCB may also cover costs for transportation in excess of normal transportation costs to and from work, parking, accommodation and meals when attending sessions. You must complete an expense form and provide receipts to receive reimbursement.

SUPPORTIVE DEVICES

These are accessories or aids that may help you in the recovery process or be needed for an extended period of time because of your injury. Items can include braces, splints, orthotics and in some circumstances, special shoes.

INDEPENDENT LIVING ALLOWANCE

A monthly allowance may be considered when the effects of your injury prevent you from performing yard work such as snow removal and grass cutting and housekeeping tasks that you were responsible for prior to your injury.

PERSONAL CARE ALLOWANCE

This allowance may be available if you need help with daily living activities such as bathing, dressing, meal preparation, minor healthcare such as changing dressings, help with moving from a bed to a chair and help with routine shopping trips or trips to healthcare appointments. You must obtain prior approval from your case manager before you hire a personal care attendant or pay a family member to assist you.

CLOTHING BENEFIT

May be provided in two circumstances:

1. The repair or replacement of clothing damaged or destroyed at the time of a workplace injury.
2. The repair or replacement of clothing to accommodate your injury. For example, you may need to purchase a larger size of clothing to fit over a cast.

PERMANENT PARTIAL IMPAIRMENT (PPI)

If, after your injury, a part of your body does not function in the same way it did before your injury, you may be eligible for a PPI award.

For more details, ask your case manager or view the PPI Fact Sheet at wcb.mb.ca/resources/type/worker-fact-sheet-and-faq.

PERSONAL COUNSELLING

To help you cope with the effects of your injury you may visit a community psychologist or counsellor. Limits to this service are set by the WCB.

COMMUNITY FINANCIAL COUNSELLING SERVICES

Community Financial Counselling Services is a non-profit agency available to help you and your family with debt and money management planning. You can contact the agency at 204-989-1900, toll free at 1-888-573-2383 or visit www.debthelpmanitoba.com. For WCB clients and their families this service is available at no cost, provided on a timely basis and completely confidential.

For severe injuries, the WCB may cover the cost of home and vehicle modifications, care of a child or other dependant and mobility devices such as wheelchairs, and/or annual clothing allowance. Your case manager will work with you and arrange for a formal assessment to determine your need for additional services.

APPEAL PROCEDURE FOR INJURED WORKERS AND EMPLOYERS

STEP 1

ASK COMPENSATION SERVICES TO LOOK AT THE INITIAL DECISION

Provide new information to your case manager.

Case managers in Compensation Services make decisions on claims. If, as an injured worker or employer, you disagree with a decision, discuss the decision with your case manager first.

Please make sure that you provide any new information about your case to them.

As an injured worker, if you want to appeal a decision on your claim, you can ask the Worker Advisor Office for help. The Office is separate from the WCB and can provide free, confidential advice. If necessary, the Office may represent you and your dependants in the appeal process. You can reach the Worker Advisor Office at 204-945-5787 or toll free 1-800-282-8069 or at www.gov.mb.ca/labour/wao.

STEP 2

REQUEST A FILE REVIEW BY THE REVIEW OFFICE

Prepare the reasons you request a file review.

If, after speaking to your case manager, you still disagree with their decision, injured workers, employers, or their representatives can request a file review from the Review Office. Send your written request by mail to the Review Office, 333 Broadway, Winnipeg, MB R3C 4W3 or fax to 204-954-4999. Be sure to include your full name and claim number.

If you prefer, you may use a Request for Review form located on the WCB website at wcb.mb.ca. The form can be completed online, printed and mailed or faxed to the Review Office. You may also call the Claims Service Centre at 204-954-4321 or toll free 1-855-954-4321 for information about the appeal process and/or for a form to be mailed to you.

For more information, please refer to Policy 21.10, Reconsiderations on the WCB website.

STEP 3

ASK FOR A FINAL APPEAL AT THE INDEPENDENT APPEAL COMMISSION

Note that the Appeal Commission can only hear cases that have received a decision from the Review Office.

If you disagree with the Review Office's decision, you have the right to a final appeal with the independent Appeal Commission. You must complete an Application to Appeal form and explain why you feel the decision should be changed. You may complete and submit the appeal form online at appeal.mb.ca or call 204-925-6116 or toll free 1-855-925-6110 for a form to be mailed to you.

Medical Review Panel

Another component to the appeal process is the Medical Review Panel, which can take place at any of the appeal steps. This is normally arranged when the written medical opinion of your doctor is different from the medical opinion of a WCB doctor. This difference in medical opinion must be supported by objective medical findings. The WCB has an FAQ which describes the Medical Review Panel in greater detail. You can obtain a copy from your case manager, the Claims Service Centre, online at wcb.mb.ca or by calling 204-954-4321 or toll free 1-855-954-4321.

OTHER SERVICES AND INFORMATION

FAIR PRACTICES OFFICE

The Fair Practices Office can provide assistance when you feel you have not been treated fairly or the WCB has not resolved your claim in a timely manner. Contact with the Fair Practices Office is kept confidential. Your concerns are discussed with WCB staff only if you request that this action be taken.

The Fair Practices Office is not a level of appeal. To contact the Fair Practices Office, please call 204-954-4467 or toll free 1-855-954-4321, extension 4467 or <https://fairpracticesofficemb.ca>.

WORKER ADVOCATES

An advocate can provide you with guidance and information as your claim progresses through Case Management. There does not have to be an issue under appeal. An advocate can also represent you in the appeal process. Examples of advocates are:

Union Representative

If you belong to a union, a representative of the union may be familiar with the WCB process and can assist you at no cost.

Worker Advisor Office

Worker advisors are available to counsel you with your claim and WCB decisions. Their office is located in the provincial government's Department of Labour and Immigration. This service is independent of the WCB and is available at no cost.

You may contact the Worker Advisor Offices at 204-945-5787 or toll free 1-800-282-8069 or at www.gov.mb.ca/labour/wao.

GETTING A COPY OF YOUR WCB CLAIM FILE

You can request a copy or update of your file by asking your case manager, the Claims Service Centre, or by calling our File Access Department at 204-954-4453 or toll free 1-855-954-4321, ext. 4453. Copies may also be provided upon appeal of an issue to employers and advocates. First time file copies are free of charge.

CRISIS INFORMATION/NUMBERS

The WCB is aware of the emotional stress and anxiety that you can experience as a result of an injury or a negative claim decision. Although we encourage you to discuss these effects with your doctor or case manager, we also recognize this may be uncomfortable. The following mental health services are community based and can be immediately accessed by you or a family member.

Klinik Crisis Line (24 hours)

If your employer does not provide an employee assistance program, the WCB can arrange and cover the cost of limited counselling with a psychologist or therapist. Ask for details from your case manager.

TERMS USED BY THE WCB

When dealing with the WCB, you will hear a number of new terms and phrases. The more common terms are described below.

Adjudicate

To decide what your WCB benefits and services may be.

Aggravation

The worsening of a medical condition.

Advocate

Someone who represents or assists you with the WCB, explaining WCB matters or appealing a WCB decision. A union representative or a worker advisor is a typical advocate. A family member can also help.

Alternate Duties

Different work that is offered by the employer when the worker is temporarily or permanently unable to perform their pre-injury work.

Average Earnings

This is an average of your employment-related pay for one, two or in some cases five years, prior to your injury.

Compensable

What the WCB will or will not pay for.

Employable

Your potential to get a job.

Entitlement

The right to receive WCB benefits and services.

Ergonomics

Worksite set up to prevent strain or injury. Ergonomic adjustments can help you perform tasks that may be difficult to do because of your injury.

Functional Capacity Evaluation

A comprehensive evaluation of your functional abilities. The results can be used to help the case manager determine your work abilities.

Loss of Earning Capacity

The loss of your ability to earn income because of a workplace injury.

Maximum Medical Improvement

The most your health can improve in relation to your workplace injury/illness.

Minimum Annual Earnings

A benchmark rate used to decide how much you will receive from the WCB. This amount is reviewed each year and may change.

Medical Aid

WCB department that processes non-wage loss expenses such as medical expenses and some rehabilitation payments.

Modified Duties

Changes made to a worker's pre-injury duties that enable a worker to return to safe and suitable work. It may involve a modification to the job, task, function, hours of work, worksite or any combination of these.

No Time Loss

Your injury does not cause you to miss work.

Non-Compensable

Something not related to the workplace injury, which may affect your recovery or WCB benefits.

Pre-existing Condition

An injury, illness or disability that took place before your workplace injury/illness.

Time Loss

Time missed from work because of your workplace injury/illness.

Vocational Rehabilitation

Programs and services that may be offered to you when your employer can't find you work because of your injury.
