

ASSESSABLE PAYROLL

Each year, employers report payroll to the Workers Compensation Board of Manitoba (WCB) which is used to calculate how much the employer is required to pay in premiums for their workers compensation insurance coverage.

Payroll includes workers' earnings, casual labour earnings and the labour portion of contract workers' payments. (For more information specific to contract workers, see the FAQ Assessment Schedule for Contract Labour on the WCB website.) Employers are asked to report both their gross payroll and their assessable payroll. For most businesses, these amounts are the same.

What is the difference between payroll and earnings?

For the purposes of the WCB, earnings refer to what each individual worker is paid for their work. Payroll refers to the total earnings of all covered workers combined (not including individuals with Personal Coverage) and may include earnings for individuals who are not issued a T4 slip by the business.

What is the difference between gross payroll and assessable payroll?

The amount that employers report, per worker, is subject to a cap, or maximum assessable earnings level. In 2022, the maximum level of assessable earnings is $150,000. For 2023, the maximum level of assessable earnings is $153,380. Employers are not charged a premium on the portion of a worker's earnings that exceeds the maximum assessable earnings.

For example, if all of your workers earn less than the maximum assessable earnings of $150,000 for 2022, then the gross payroll and the assessable payroll are the same amount.

If any individual worker earns in excess of the maximum assessable earnings for 2022, the employer should report that individuals' assessable earnings as the maximum assessable of $150,000. The total amount is considered the gross payroll and the capped earnings are considered the assessable payroll.

Example of how to apply the maximum assessable earnings level:

A business has two workers in 2022. One worker earned $160,000 and the other worker earned $135,000. The 2022 maximum assessable earnings per worker is $150,000.

The employer's gross payroll for 2022 is $295,000 ($$160,000 + $135,000 = $295,000$).

The employer's assessable payroll for 2022 is $285,000 ($$150,000 + $135,000 = $285,000$).

$285,000 is the amount the WCB will use to determine the employer's 2022 premium.

For 2023, the business anticipates that one worker will earn $168,000 and the other worker will earn $142,000. The 2023 maximum assessable earnings per worker is $153,380.

The employer's estimated assessable payroll for 2023 will be is $295,380 ($153,380 + $142,000 = $295,380). The gross payroll is only applicable for prior year(s) and is not required for the current year.

$295,380 is the amount the WCB will use to determine the employer's 2023 premium.

Does the maximum assessable earnings level apply to all types of coverage?

The maximum assessable earnings level applies to all coverage types including Personal Coverage available for purchase by sole proprietors, partners or directors - these individuals are also subject to a Maximum Optional Coverage level which in 2023 is $153,380.

For additional information about Personal Coverage, see the Personal Coverage section on the WCB website.

If my premium is based on the maximum, are workers' benefits also limited to the maximum?

Wage loss benefits payable to injured workers are also limited by the maximum assessable earnings level of $153,380 for 2023. Of note, individuals with Personal Coverage will have their wage loss benefits limited to the amount of coverage purchased (up to the Maximum Optional Coverage level of $153,380 for 2023).

Is there a minimum level of assessable earnings for workers?

No, there is no minimum level of assessable earnings for workers; however, if an individual would like to purchase Personal Coverage (available to sole proprietors, partners and directors), they are required to purchase at least the annual minimum which in 2023 is $27,670.

What earnings are considered assessable versus not assessable?

Assessable payroll includes workers' earnings, casual labour earnings and the labour portion of contract workers' earnings. In general, if the earnings are taxable by Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) and reported on the worker's T4, the earnings should be included in the amounts you report to the WCB. If you do not have to report the earnings to CRA, they are generally not considered assessable earnings and do not need to be included in your payroll calculations for the WCB.

Appendix A provides examples of both assessable and non-assessable earnings.

Note: the examples of assessable and non-assessable payroll may change at any point if the CRA changes their policies around what earnings are considered taxable or the WCB determines other remuneration to be subject to assessment.

Appendix A

Assessable Earnings
